Redakteurs nota....

Rose vir jou Madam!!!!!!!!!

Rooi Rose vir jou Madam, God het die vrou spesiaal gemaak, vir hierdie wêreld en met die oog op Nasionale vrouedag is my boodskap soos volg:

Aan al die vroue in ons land, julle is kosbaar en spesiaal die Moeder van die huis, 'n sakevrou, verpleegster, tuisteskepper, kok ens. Dankie vir die vroue van ons land.
Die vrou moet geliefkoos word, gekoester en bemin word, met die klem op vroue maand wil ek graag vroue-mishandeling onder 'n vergrootglas plaas!!!!

Mishandeling, wat beteken dit?
Om viesies geslaan te word, om gevloek of geskel te word, om as mens afgekraak te word.

Daar is baie vorms van mishandeling, en soms staar jy jouself blind daarvoor.
Ek wil vandag 'n beroep op elke vrou doen, plaas jou verhouding onder 'n vergrootglas en as daar enige iets is wat jou ongemaklik laat voel maak werk daarvan.
Moet nie toelaat dat 'n man sy hande vir jou lig nie, Hy het NIE DIE REG OM DIT TE DOEN NIE.....
'n Wyse dame het eendag gesê " my kind as 'n man jou vandag klap en sê hy is jammer, en jy vergewe hom, oor 'n maand of drie klap en skop hy jou, en voor jy weet lê jy in 'n bloedbad" NET JY KAN HOM STOP!!!!!

Geen vrou verdien om geslaan te word nie!!!

Madam, Jy verdien die beste!! Jy verdien om soos 'n vrou behandel te word.
Mans wat vroue slaan het geen selfbeeld nie, en my insiens is hulle niks anders as 'n lafaard nie.

Lees die berig oor 'n vrou wat deur haar kêrel aangerand is op bladsy 10.

Groete Charms..... Geniet vrouedag!!!!!!

Charms
Xx

Out of Lilly's Well

Dropped you cellphone in water?

What to do....as Teresa discovered.

Life is too short
to wake up with regrets.
Love the people who treat you right &
forget the ones who dont!
Believe that everything happens for a reason.
If you get a chance - take it
If it changes your life - let it
Nobody said life would be easy they just promised
it would be worth it

Just the other day, a friend was in despair when her cellphone plunged into her fish pond to what she thought was a certain watery death. All that precious information.....all the effort to recapture some of it on a new phone! In one way or another, man of us have shared this feeling.

As luck would have it, I had just discovered one of the most helpful bits of techno advice on the web:

What do you do when your cellphone (digital camera or other electronic gadget) get soaked.

Well, all may not be lost! Here are a few easy steps you can take that may just save the day.....

#1: Do not turn on the phone - resist the temptation to simply pat it dry, switch it on, and check if your data is still there. A wet battery may cause a short that will do more harm than good.

#2: If you dropped you phone in the ocean, rinse it briefly in fresh water to wash out the salt.

#3: Remove the battery and SIM card and dry them, as well as the phone and the housing area for the battery, as thoroughly as possible with a towel.
Trying to dry your phone with your hair dryer or in the the oven is not a good idea!
Do not replace the battery until every thing is completely dry.

#4: To make sure your phone dries out completely, cover it with dry, uncooked rice in a zip - lock bag or sealed container for at least 24 hours. The rice will absorb all the moisture.

#5: Finally.....replace the battery and SIM card, turn your phone back on, and see if it works!!!!!

I'm happy to say, it did for my friend.
Good luck!!!!!!!!!!!!!

On the 18th of July, the GREAT Nelson Mandela turned 94 - Happy Birthday "Madiba" may God bless you and keep you safe for your loved one's.

Surviving abuse.

The words "domestic violence" conjures images of Jerry Springer guests (usually incestuously connected), toothless and intoxicated with the last dregs of cheap liquor or crystal meths.

I was shocked to discover that although it is 2012 and the emancipation of women is a given - there is a stigma attached to the victims of abuse and thus very little sympathy or respect. Society believes that a woman who is caught up in an abusive relationship is weak, stupid or enjoys a good beating - after all, why doesn't she just leave if it's that bad they reason.

When most women embark upon a new relationship they have a positive outlook for the future. They get carried away by the passion and romance, hoping that he is "the one", her knight in shining amour.

It can be hard to spot an abusive personality early in a relationship and by the time the woman realizes she is in trouble, she is already trapped by feelings of intense fear, isolation, shame and an ego that she become all but non - existent.
Bruises are hidden and people are avoided until she finds herself in ICU or worse.
Frightening statistics show that on average, more than seven women are in an abuse relationship and that one out of every three women murdered by their husbands or boyfriends every dag.

There are some signs that you should be on the lookout for if you believe you have an abusive partner:

1.Jealousy and possessiveness - become jealous over your family, friends, coworkers.
Tries to isolate you. Views his women and children as his property instead of as unique individuals. Accuses you of cheating or flirting with other men without cause. Always asks where you've been and with whom in an accusatory manner.

2. Control - He is overly demanding of your time and must be the center of your attention. He control finances, the car, and the activities you partake in. Become angry if woman begins showing signs of independence or strength.

3. Superiority - He is always right, has to win or be in charge. He always justifies his actions so he can be "right" by blaming you or others. A verbally abusive man will talk down to you or call you names in order to make himself feel better. The goal of an abusive man is to make you feel weak so they can feel powerful. Abusers are frequently insecure and this power makes them feel better about themselves.

4. Manipulates - Tells you you're crazy or stupid so blame is turned on you. Tries to make you think that it's your fault he is abusive. Says he can't help being abusive so you feel sorry for him and keep trying to "help" him. Tells others you are unstable.

5. Mood swings - His mood switches from aggressive and abusive to apologetic and loving after the abuse has occurred.

6. Actions don't match words - He breaks promises, says he loves you and then abuses you.

7. Punishes you - An emotionally abusive man may withhold sex, emotional intimacy, or plays the "silent game" as punishment when he doesn't get his way. He verbally abuses you by frequently criticizing you.

8. Unwilling to seek help - An abusive man doesn't think there is anything wrong with him so why should he seek help? Does not acknowledges his faults or blames it on his childhood or outside circumstances.

9. Disrespects women - shows no respect towards his mother, sisters or any women in his life. Thinks women are stupid and worthless.

10. Has a history of abusing women and / or animals or was abused himself - barterers repeat their patterns and seek out women who are submissive and can be controlled. Abusive behavior can be generational dysfunction and abused men have a great chance of becoming abusers.

Important:

1. If you continue to stay in an abusive relationship because you think he will change ans start treating you well, think again.

2. If you are scared, pick up the phone and start calling organizations, family friends and associates and ask them if they can help or know of ways to help.

3. You cannot change an abusive person through love and patience.

4. Take ant treats that you abuser makes seriously.

5. The most dangerous time of an abusive relationship is at the end. Do not hesitate to call the police if necessary and always have a backup plan ready to implement. If necessary, file a restraining order against your abuser.

Remember above all:

The abuse that you endured was not fault. There is never and justification for abuse. All people deserve to be treated with dignity and respect.

Top Vibe Magazine in going to cover this subject over a period. If you are a victim of any form of abuse you are more than welcome to write to us, (will be treated confidentially) or if you would like to give you opinion on this matter.
