Is your insurance prepared for the Holiday Season?

By: Henk Fourie

Considering the question this time of the year might be too late to. Not to mention that most policyholders and new prospects ever consider the level of their cover based on addressing the real need.
Being in this industry for many years, I can say with absolute confidence that most consumers is in the market to buy a premium, not adequate cover or even valuable service proposition. It is shocking to say that many consumers emotionally enter into an insurance contract when the premium fits their preconceived idea of what a good premium is.

Traditionally insurers refuse to enter into a new contract of insurance for the period between 1 November and 15 January. No new business is taking on during this period unless there was continues cover with another insurance company for a reasonable period.
The idea of insurance is that every policy holder contributes to the insurance fund over a period of time and that from this fund the claims of a few will be paid by the premiums of many. We call this spread of risk and policyholders contribute to this for their reasonable risk exposure.

Now comes John and plans his holiday from 15 December to 15 January. John does not really believe in paying insurance premiums and rather saves the money during the year.
However, he realizes that when he leaves his home and valuable possessions during the holidays that there is a huge matter of risk involved.
Being smart, he chooses to take out an insurance policy that incepts on 1 November, but with the idea to cancel it as soon as he is back from vacation (and if he does not need to submit a claim).
During this period, John will pay only 2-3 premiums but expose the insurance fund (to which you and I contribute faithfully for years) with a risk of thousands and thousands of Rand.

If you are one of those faithful premium payers, you will understand why insurance companies have applied these measurers of not taking on new business during the festive season over the year.
For you, the following tips would be valuable when you travel over the holiday season. (However, for you John, the only tip I can give is to contact one of the "direct insurance companies" when you return from your holiday or, if you are serious about proper advice and service, contact me).

* Have the emergency 24/7 cell phone number of your broker available, save it on your phone.

* Make sure you have home and roadside assistance as a benefit on your policy and put the brochures and window sticker that are supplied with this in your vehicle.

* Consider taking out Car hire as an additional benefit.

* Have a copy of your policy schedule with you when you travel.

* Get someone to look after your house. If they visit daily they can turn on and off the lights, make sure the freezer and fridge did not run down and that your geyser and water supply equipment is functional.

Rather turn off your geyser, not only will you save electricity but alsolower the risk of a geyser bursting.

* There are criminals at holiday destinations as well, always be on your guard.

And lastly, travel safely and patiently, adhere to the laws of the road and have a blessed holiday season!

Until next time!!!!!

Henk Fourie. 083 2937 947

Om te gee..

Dis Kersfees en die tyd van die jaar gee ons maklik. Maar waarom nie heeljaar nie?
Want gee verryk ons as mens. Dit bring ware geluk

Om te gee het dikwels (onverwagse) belonings." 'n Mens onderskat so maklik jou druppel in die emmer" Die drie dinge in die lewe waarna ons die meeste smag - geluk, vryheid en gemoedsrus. Dit kry jy altyd as jy dit aan iemand anders gee. Om te gee maak jou gelukkig.

"Op soek na 'n kitsoplossing om jou bui te lig?. Doen iets spesiaals vir iemand anders - sonder dat hulle daarvoor gevra het".
Dis onteenseglik so: Om iets vir iemand anders te doen laat jou beter voel oor jouself. Jou fokus is na buite, na ander, en jy kry positiewe terugvoer, jy word emosioneel gestreel. Dis lafenis vir die siel. Dit gee betekenis in jou lewe.

Om te gee verbind jou aan ander. Dit gaan oor 'n connectedness. Dit laat jou weer voel en beleef, en bevestig die egtheid van jou bestaan.

"In die mens se soeke na sekuriteit, bou hy dikwels vir hom vals sekerhede, soos om meer te besit of hom met mure af te sluit van sy medemens. En tog vereensaam ons en ons raak al meer angstig en depressief" " Gee van jouself, jou tyd en jou goed, en jy sal bevry voel van die houvas van hierdie vals lewenssekuriteit"
'n Mens moet net oorgaan tot aksie. "Doen iets. Moenie net sit en toekyk nie". Dis nooit te laat om te begin nie. En watter groter ideale geleentheid as hierdie Kersfees.

Om te gee, is so maklik.

Daar is so baie mense daar buite wat net 'n drukkie soek, dalk net geselskap, wie weet.

Maak 'n punt daarvan om elke dag uit te reik al is dit net na een persoon.

Gee net 'n bietjie van jou tyd.... Jou druppel my druppel, gaan 'n verskil maak.

House of Curries - Vaderbijlpark.

This was the first visit at "The House of Curries".
I don't like hot food. The Manager assured me that the food is "great"
The waiter brings out the food and I must say it was "great", very tasty and it was not hot at all. You have a choice of spiced, mild, medium or hot.
Thank you to Management that I could taste the food.
I can recommend the food.

Horse and River - Vanderbijlpark.

Wow, ek moet sê die diens is uitstekkend. Die kelner wat ons bedien het, het 'n oulike hoed gedra. Hy is baie vriendelik en profesioneel.
Die kos was heerlik en waarde vir geld. Hulle knoffel brood is die beste in die Vaaldriehoek.
Gaan besoek hulle en besluit vir jouself.

The Pint + Pie - Risiville.

Hou jy van pastei, skyfies en sous? Dit klink net beter in Engels
Pie, chips and gravy, hier kan jy jouself knuppel duk eet.
Die pasteie is groot, sappig en lekker....
Moet dit nie misloop nie!!!!!! Gaan probeer dit gerus.
